The sleek boom arm with noise-canceling microphone and enhanced wind noise reduction means your voice is transmitted clearly. It is the first wireless headset for IP telephony that features wideband audio. Its impressive 6.8 kHz audio bandwidth is more than twice that of conventional telephony! Not only does high-definition sound give you the feeling of “face-to-face” conversation, it also increases productivity because you hear every detail the first time. With an enhanced design, improved materials and weighing less than an ounce, this headset is so comfortable you’ll forget you are even wearing it.

Intuitive and easy to use, the sophisticated LCD display lets you set call parameters, such as volume and audio output, to suit your individual preference. It expands your communications potential with a wireless range of up to 350 feet, conference call capability and, with an optional hot-swappable interchangeable battery, around-the-clock talk time.
